

Our mission is to protect the oceans by educating the public about environmental problems, by taking action which makes a tangible difference.

This animal lights up !

This phenomenon is called bioluminescence. This finned octopus has even replaced the suckers on its tentacles with little light organs (photophores) which attract prey in the dark. Cunning !